New Year's Resolutions

The Library Programs Service (LPS) asks for your cooperation in helping us to serve you better during 1990. As you know, LPS provides instructions for correspondence, such as filing claims, filling out the Amendment of Selections post cards, submitting surveys, etc. However, LPS finds that depository library staff often fail to follow these instructions. As a result, LPS is hampered in its efforts to provide the kind of prompt, effective service that depository libraries deserve. Thus, we are asking each depository librarian this New Year of 1990 to take the following pledge:

"I, _____, Documents Librarian, hereby resolve to:

- ♦ circle the item number and classification number for each title being claimed and will not underline or use highlighter marker.
- ♦ have one person responsible for signing the claim forms to reduce mistaken claims.
- ♦ file claims for missing paper and microfiche titles within 60 calendar days of receipt of the shipment.
- ♦ use only GPO's shipping list/claim form and not an OCLC, vendor, or homemade claim form.
- ♦ not claim deleted item numbers once the deletion has been mailed to LPS.
- ♦ not claim added item numbers until after the new distribution cycle begins each October.
- ♦ complete the mailing address at the bottom of the shipping list/claim form, Depository Library Inquiry Form, etc.
- ♦ provide a consistent mailing address, not several variations, for my library.
- ♦ use the correct depository library number for my institution on all correspondence. I will not use such outdated designations as "DS" and "DR" with my library number.
- ♦ contact the Regional or nearest selective first for any missing shipping list, as they can provide this form more expeditiously.
- ♦ use the Depository Library Inquiry Form, rather than a letter, to claim an automatic mail title, to inquire whether a particular title will be distributed, or to question the assignment of a SuDocs classification number.

- ♦ include only one inquiry per Depository Library Inquiry Form as the form is routed among LPS staff for research and response.
- ♦ not delete item numbers that have been designated for distribution to all depositories, e.g. 0556-C, 1004-E, etc.
- ♦ select only active item numbers on the Amendment of Selections post cards by keeping current with discontinued items appearing in the Inactive or Discontinued Items list and in the Appendices of the List of Classes.
- ♦ review the "Whatever Happened To ..." column and the "Update to the List of Classes" appearing in Administrative Notes before writing to LPS with an inquiry.
- ♦ enter the item number and the depository library number on the item survey OCR scanning sheets and Amendment of Selections post cards in the proper format, e.g. 0195A, 0013B.

Recognizing that our relationship is a "two-way street", we also pledge our efforts to improve services to depository libraries in 1990. Let us renew our commitment together to support the Federal Depository Library Program and to better inform American citizens in the affairs for our Government - through documents.

We at the Library Programs Service and the U. S. Government Printing Office extend to all of our many friends in the depository library community:

Our Best Wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Readers Exchange

FROM SHANGHAI TO SHORT GAP

Over the years we have enjoyed the presence of many student employees in our Government Publications Department in Andrews Library at The College of Wooster. Some of them have even survived the rigorous job orientations and the peculiarities of depository libraries and government publications to stay with us for all of their four years at the college. In recent years, with the addition of a major documents cataloging and retrospective conversion project, our student staff have logged over 100 hours each week. It is safe to say that without them we would not be here today. The following stories illustrate, somewhat, the spirit which has developed in the department and which transcends both job description and time card.

Two years ago we were able to partition and expand our departmental office and work space so that the students now share an area which is pretty much "their own territory." While we rejected some of their early proposals for saunas and oriental rugs, we have seen a change in the character of the decor in the work space which had formerly been shared with the librarians or was tucked into public areas with studying students as neighbors.

One of the first manifestation of a special esprit de corps among our staff members was the post card blitz. As each one went off for sunny spring breaks or summer trips to homes in many corners of the United States and the world, we said cheerfully, "Write if you get work!" or "Send us a card." And they came; post cards with remarkable scenes and colorful stamps. Most have found their way to a structural post in the corner of the work area. Bright beach scenes are interspersed with occasional commencement photos and wedding announcements. One pictured a familiar dorm which was serving as a summer hotel for an employee who had to stay on campus. The postmarks themselves make a veritable travelogue.

It became obvious very early that our students, 5-10 each year, represented an unusual cross section geographically, and, while they were independent adults on campus, home, at widely varying distances, was still a major focal point. A special "depository tree" began to grow in Wooster then. Using recyclable U.S. government materials, Ellen Conrad, our Government Publications Associate, constructed a signpost from a triangular map mailer. It was anchored in a depository shipment box filled with superseded CFR's selected for both their color and counterweight. Long narrow dried larch signposts were cut from still other depository boxes and were attached to the post with non-government paper staples. Each one carried the name of the home town or birth place of a staff member and we figured the mileage to each from Wooster (using government sources, of course).

and mounted them pointing in the approximate direction from our center of the universe. As the staff grew and changed, so did the tree.

To celebrate each season, Ellen makes appropriate bulletin board cutouts and clever decorations which she changes faithfully in the work office along with the "We the People" calendar. When Christmas came, we also decorated the signpost tree. Ornaments were depository trash transformed into found art--rubber band chains, assorted shapes and various pictures from superseded but still colorful documents, candy canes from microfiche not otherwise up to contractual specs, and, for the top, a star from the gold cover of a second and superseded copy of the List of Classes. We kept the decorated tree up until May so that it could be inspected along with the rest of our collection. At its base now is taped a picture of the beloved signpost from The Swamp at M*A*S*H 4077, which served as the inspiration for our own.

After the hiring of new staff this fall, the signs now crowding the post still contain a number of expected Ohio place names, including Wooster, Elyria, Mt. Vernon and Loudonville as well as such places from the rest of the United States as Short Gap, WV; Tacoma, WA; Haverford, PA; Largo, FL; and Chatham, NJ. Among the farthest flung are Casa Blanca; Oslo; Penang, Buenos Aires, Hong Kong, Jonkoping, Calcutta, Cambridge; Madras; and Shanghai.
